Return of Meighen Revives Speculation Regarding Election

With Empire Conference Ended, Canadian Prime Minister Left United Kingdom To-day For Ottawa; Ballantyne Back Shortly.

London, July 30.—(Canadian Associated Press)—Premier Meighen was given a very cordial send-off when he left this morn-ing by the boat train. Among the notables who were at the station wish him godspeed were the Duke of Devonshire, Right Hon, Winston Churchill, Acting High Commissioner Griffith and several Cabinet officials. Mr. Meighen, although somewhat exhausted from hard work during the last few days, was in good spirits. He reiterated his grateful appreciation of the unfailing kindness shown him and his party everywhere during his stay in England:

bouquet by one of the many English ladies who had come to bid Premier and Mrs. Meighen adieu.

The Times, in an editorial this morning, praised Mr. Meighen on being a model of stern reticence during his visit and added that on being a model of stern reticence both in England and Canada this same restraint had been greatly valued. The influence of the Canadian Prime Minister at such meetings, The Times said, had always been very great, and if Mr. Meighen believed that the less said about it the better, few would be quick to differ with him on that point.

It had been arranged for the Allies to meet in a few days to settle this question, added the Premier, and he hoped the settlement would be final.

London, July 30.—The sensational and unprocedented incident of a British sovereign repudiating to Parliament, through the Prime Minister statements attributed to him in a newspaper interview was given the greatest prominence in the entire British press this morning. U. S. Congress Will Give Schemes More Attention

Washington, July 36.—(Canadian Press).—Increased attention is going to be given by Congress to inland water transportation from this time forth. This is the word that comes from prominent members of both Houses who have been giving thought to the general transportation problem of the United States. The sentiment for intelligent consideration of the inland water transportation is especially marked among some members of the House and Senate Interstate Commerce Committees, which have jurisdiction in railroad matters and which have therefore been obliged to give study to the shortcomings of the existing rall system.

For some years in Congress it has been the fashion to criticize the river and harbor bills as "pork parrel" measures. This criticism in the case of some appropriations has been wellfounded but at the same time it has operated to prevent waterway improvements that have deserved to be carried ahead. Likewise the criticism has been exactly what the railroads wanted, in view of the hostility of the roads to waterway development.

Attitude Changes.

ment. Attitude Changes.

But the high rail rates, the seeming inability of the railroads to give the service the public demands, and the very evident fact that with the development of the country there will be traffle for both the rails and waterways in plenty, are serving to bring about a different attitude in Congress toward river and harbor appropriations. Many indications are given to Congress and the administration are going to try to develop water transportation and correlate it with the railroad transportation.

Such projects as the development of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence water route, the development of the Mississippi to the Gulf and a number of others that might be mentioned, according to all signs are going to be given serious consideration by this Congress and efforts made to get them under way and to the stage where they are not merely subjects for stump speeches and after-dinner oratory. The development of the Erie Canal, though that is a New York State waterway, is going ahead, according to information here, and efforts are to be made to made effective use of it as a channel for a large volume of traffic, including coal and grain.

The whole country about the Great Lakes and throughout the Mississippi valley is interested in seeing a large amount of boat traffic go over the Lakes and get to the eastern coast by the Erie or St. Lawrence routes. The pressure for this from chambers of commerce and business organizations is growing. This pressure is feit in Congress. Representative Sweet, a prominent member of the House Interstate Committee, declares it is imperative that Congress give close and intelligent attention to inland waterway transportation from now on. He holds that meritorious water route

Statistics show that while only two per cent. of the people of America are educated at college, no less than seventy per cent. of the leaders of the nation in politics, commerce and the come from that little two per cent. of the people-"the college-trained group".

We all know that a college education is necessary for the adequate training of engineers, chemists, clergymen, actuaries and astronomers, but the evidence is also overwhelming in proving that the college-trained man wins in every other line of business endeavor.

Shall your boy become one of the leaders?

The answer depends very largely on his education.

He cannot get that vital college training without

Founded nine years ago, the col-lege was domiciled in Halifax until the disastrous explosion of December, 1917, wrecked its quarters and rendered it houseless. Transferred then, to Kingston, Ontario, it found, for six months, a temporary home in the buildings of the Royal Military College. Although official records do not indicate it, it is well known that soldiers and sailors—especially in the making, do not always get along well together, and it is whispered that fistic encounters of a violent character, not set forth in whispered that fistic encounters of a violent character, not set forth in the official curriculum, were an almost dally occurrence. Under their supervision the incoming boy is sooner or later transformed from an offimes unruly cub, slack and careless, to a self-reliant, active, ambitious youth, jumping at command, eager to obey. He becomes proud of his school, interested in his work. With discipline and justice, tempered into a future citizen who should be the control of the school of of his school, interested in his work. his advancement is rapid. Boys' Career

The boy enters the college between the ages of fourteen and sixteen after passing a competitive examination. I looked over the examination papers and found them fairly stiff though I am advised that a two-year prior course at any high school should fit him to grappie successfully with the questions. If he is successful, and physical fit, the early Fall finds him installed in his new quarters, probably a bit nervous as to whether he is going to "take to it" or not. He is fitted out with a uniform, "duds," sea chest, and other essentials, of a seafaring life, and is soon absorbed into the college routine. His life henceforth is nautical and filled with naval etiquette. He must remember that the college is his "ship"; that "left" and "right" are port and starboard; the sitting room the "gunroom"; the kitchen the "galley," and the parade ground the "quarter deck." When he goes on leave he "goes ashore." Doubtless, if he has time, he reads Captain Wallace, Dauber, Masefield, and other sea-songsters; but his is a busy day!

NO PRELIMINARIES.

It was only to be expected that the Government of the United States would discourage preliminary meetings of the repany separate group prior to the disarmament conference. That is precisely as it should be. It is right and proper that some attention should be given to the compilation of an agenda; but there should be nothing done that might create anything approaching suspicion. Hold a few preliminary meetings and the result would almost sure to be a batch of cut and dried proposals quite out of harmony with the objects of the conference. is a natural consequence that the Empire view should be consolidated and especially desirable in the event of single vote representation. But in view of the fact that the disarmament conference has formed an important topic at the meeting of Dominion Premiers it is safe to assume that whether the of the Empire is repregation the fundamental basis of titude on the part of the British Empire will be appreciated by the Government of the United States; and we are presuming that the chief objection to preliminaries would centre in group discussion in advance.

For these and other equally obvious reasons nothing should any way reduce the chance of success. The way is clear for a course which should assure enduring peace. Introduce any semblance of the traditional methods of diplomacy and difficulties will arise. And in the last analysis it should be remembered by the conferees that the people of the world demand that their deliberations shall be attended by results.

SOCIAL HYGIENE.

It is not an easy task to work up real practical enthusiasm in behalf of a cause which does not possess anything approaching an appeal of interest. It is more difficult still when the cause in question has been permitted to languish in an atmosphere of sparious impropriety because of joker. a disinclination to tackle the pioneering work. THE NAVY LEAGUE. Some idea of the excellent work performed by the Victoria branch of the Navy League may be conveyed to the public mind by a reference to the fact that no fewer than fifty boys who received their original training in seamanship at this port have been sent to sea on ships owned by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine. This is a record of which the local organization may be justly proud for the important reason that this country cannot hope to aspire to maritime prosperity unless it of the canadian development. Vancouver, July 30 .- Two shiploads of furs are expected here in October, one from Siberia and one

Reports recently that there were two years' supply of furs to come out of the Siberian country, have been contradicted by parties reaching Petropovalovski recently. The native trappers, while they did not send furs out to any extent last year. Zip-Ride "Wonderful."

"My it's a wonderful boat," said the Premier,
He explained that it was the first zip-ride he had ever been on. The boat went around Esquimalt harbor a couple of times and made around 40 miles an hour. The Premier was delighted, and Mr. Yarrow stepped on the gas to the limit. The boat shot ahead with such speed that the pressure of the air broke the windshield. No one was hurt, however.

furs out to any extent last year, did not have them to send. The big prices they received the year before from English buyers in China put them in a position to be independent and they did not trap enough to supply themselves and the people around them with furs.

The Soviets are not in charge at Anadir Bay, nor in any of the sery rich fur bearing districts, but the Japanese practically dictate the dividing line between Soviet dealings and reactionaries. Japanese have made no move to interfere in any way with other countries sending traders into that part of Siberia.

By the time the two ships come back with their rich fur cargoes it is expected that the fur market will have improved materially.

Owing to the establishment of dollar credits in Germany by American banks the fur market at Leipsic has gone ahead by leads and bounds and much of the surplus fur stock of the United States will be unloaded on the German market this Fall.

TABLES REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE PENDING ACTION

Economic Council Now Waits Government Sanction

Definite progress on one large phase of its work was reported to the Victoria Economic Council last night by a special committee, composed of Major Staniey Okell, Captain M. D. Harbord, Frank Giolms, J. G. Thomson and R. A. Mcintyre, who were instructed to proceed with the Okell scheme of employment for ex-vocational students and pensioners. The committee report, as read by R. A. McIntyre, showed, that the City Council had adopted the representations of the Economic Council in a scheme of Winter work for tilose classes of the non-employed, and that all that was wanting was the government seal of approval to the idea, which had as its mainspring the theory that work and not money was idea, which had as its mainspring the theory that work and not money was wanted by the out of work. It was fully acknowledged that these two classes; of the non-employed were but a portion of the total problem, but a portion of the total problem, but a portion that too, had to be settled, the report was neceived as progress and the secretary E. A. Kidner, was instructed to admit it to Vancouver. The full report was as follows:

"Your committee beg to submit the following report:
"As instructed at your meeting of July 11 they met and thoroughly discussed the scheme for relief for this coming Winter as submitted by Messrs. Okell and Giolma. It was then decided to discuss this scheme with the unemployment committee of the Council and the decision of the committee was accordingly acted upon. The scheme was laid before them, explained and discussed and your committee was finally requested to forward the outlines of the scheme in writing so that they could endorse same and past it on to the Council. The basis to be followed was as follows:

"3. The City Engineer to, allot work in accordance with physical grade determined by S. C. R.

"4. That the City will supply all tools and pay all overhead charges.

"5. That the Engineer's Department will render to the Dominion Government through the S. C. R. an account for all labor used on orders issued under this scheme.

account for all labor used on orders issued under this scheme.

"6. It is of course, understood that where a man is not physically fit for the work available he will be granted relief on the same basis as last year through the S. C. R.

"7. Where the City Engineer finds that a man is unable to perform the work allotted, he will send him back to the S. C. R. for further medical examination.

Mr. Macdonald explained that he let the matter drop at that time, but the father of the boy, bristling with indignation, came to him and made threats and challenged Mr. Macdonald to proceed against the youth, whereat the detective relates that he saw no reason why the invitation should not be accepted under the circumstances, and the Provincial Police were notified and action taken.

No man ever had to stand more body mauling than the Frenchman The American champion was mercialess with his inside attack. And Carpenter himself admitted that never, in all the fights of his lifetime put together, had any man, hit hims so hard Dempsey softened up the Frenchman see that the Frenchman never again will be able to present the same selld front to any foe. Dempsey hurt Carpentier—not in a way that will cripple him as a human, but certainly in a fashjon that will harm him as a fighter. For once a mans body has been smashed to a point of exhaustion by sledge hammer blows, that body never again can take mauling in the same old way.

Gibbons, therefore, tackles a man much softer and with far less resistance than Dempsey tackled in Jersey City.

SALMONBELLIES WIN JUST AS THEY PLEASE

Gibbons is a bit tailer than Dempsey—but not so heavy. He is an orthodox man on defense; using the tactics and the tayle which Jim Corbett originated. He will prove infinitely harder to reach than Dempsey. And the bird can hit. He can't hit with Dempsey's power—but it won't be necessary. He perhaps can't take 'em like Dempsey does—but he won't need to. For Carpentier no longer is the man he used to be—since they tossed him into a squared arena with the "Tiger of the Prize Ring."

Pacific Northwest Tennis Doubles Champions Suffered Heavy Defeat at Hands of Gordon and McCallum, of Victoria, Who In Turn Went Under to Stickney and Gardner, of California.

One of the biggest surprises of Tennis Week was sprung at the Willows court yesterday afternoon when Marshall Allen and Will Taylor, of Seattle, Pacific Northwest doubles champions, went down to defeat before Marshall Gordon and Eric McCallum, of Victoria. Allen and Taylor were figured as winners of this event but they were outplayed by the local pair.

Following their sensational performance against the Seattle players, Gordon and McCallum's stock took a big jump and many spectators favored them for the finals, but Stickney and Gardner, the Californians, won two very easy sets from the Victorians and forced them out of the last stage of the match.

But Evangelical Party Not Enthusiastic; Dr. Cody May Go to Trinity

Toronto, July 27.—Propositions for the amalgamation of Wycliffe and Trinity Anglican Colleges are not new, but the suggestion that Rev. Dr. Cody might go to Australia has brought to light the fact that, recently, a deputation is said to have waited upon him and invited him to become provost of Trinity upon the resignation of Provost Macklem. Provost Macklem has now made it known that he will retire in September, and it is stated that he may return to the charge of St. Simon's Church, where he was formerly rector, which post has become vacant on the dearth of Rev. Canon Cayley. A committee of the Provincial Synod of the Church of England, which methere and passed a resolution laudatory of Dr. Cody, is said to have been appointed some time ago to try and bring about an amalgamation.

The suggestion that Provost Macklem is retiring on account of age is not seriously considered by those in touch, with the situation. Provost Macklem is only fifty-nine years of age, and Dr. Cody is fifty-three. It is stated that the building plans for Trinity College which provide for the erection of an edifice on property near Queen's Park across the street from Wycliffe College, necessitate the maising of considerable funds, the burden of which falls principally upon the younger generation of Trinity men.

Those of the younger generation are said to have felt that the position of the senior college of the Church of England in Toronto would be much enhanced if they had at the head of the college a well-known national figure, and that the provision of the necessary funds would be much enhanced if they had at the head of the college a well-known national figure, and that the provision of the necessary funds would be much enhanced if they had at the head of the college a well-known national figure, and that the provision of the necessary funds would be much enhanced if they had at the head of the college a well-known national figure, and that the provision of the necessary funds would be much enhanced if they had at the head of the college a well-known national figure, and that the provision of the necessary funds would be much enhanced if they had at the head of the college a well-known national figure, and that the provision of the serior college of the beard of electors appointed to choose a successor to the Most Rev. Dr. H of the necessary funds would be much assisted.

Differences Perpetuated

Besides this, there is a strong feeling in many quarters that existence of two colleges for theological training for the Church of England merelly serves to perpetuate the difference between the High and Low section of the church. It is suggested that the appointment of a man like Dr. Cody might lead to the reunion of the two branches of the church. Wyellffe partisans are not inclined to an amalgamation, fearing that there would be absorption of the evangefical party which would endanger its existence.

"We would not consider amalgamation for a moment," said one of them this morning. "We have always been ready for an interchange of lectures on non-controversial subjects, not only with Trinity, but with all Protestant denominations. Trinity has said to this, Wait till we are united, and then we can go in with the others." Box we can go in with the others. Box we can go in with the others are common to us, and the Roman Catholics rather than those which are common with us and all Protestants."

PRIZES OFFERED FOR HOLIDAY STORY

Have you entered yet for The Times holiday contest, for which two prizes are offered, the first of three dollars and another of two dollars, for the best and next in merit, contributions sent in to this office by September 1? It was first decided that August 15 would be the final date, but to give all our little readers an opportunity of telling of their holidays the date has been prolonged, and all contributions should be in by September I.

The contest is based on the ordinary rules for compositions, while the subject one that should appeal readily to allthat of telling in your own words what a good time you had in the current holidays. Write a brief description of your outings, telling of the merriment you enjoyed and how much pleasure you and your friends derived from the outing. If you have photographs to illustrate your contribution so much the better.

Select some particular pienie or outing to the woods or seaside, and write an account of it in your own way. Address all entries to the Editor, Children's Page, The Times, City, on or before September 1. Do not forget to state your age and address, and to certify the contribution is of your own composition.

Are You Forming the Habit of Contentment?

Contentment is greater than all wealth, it is often said, and how many of our little readers have thought about matters in just that way? Are you, little reader, contented with what you have or are you forever on the lookout for something that you have not? If you are of the latter nature, then the following story, which is partly true in fact, may be a warning to

Dick was a clever little boy of prosper ous parents. At the age of ten he had been an unusually "bright" child, and his parents would often call him before guests to show how well he could recite and what aslittle "marvel" he was in many devious ways. He was a plucky bitle chap, but had one great failing and that was he was eager for something that anyone else had and he did not.

This was exemplified in his early days when he had more toys than ten ordinary children. Still, if another child had a toy that he did not possess, he would not be pacified until he had one too, and then once he had gained his point he lost all interest in that toy. It followed from this. that he was never entirely satisfied with anything, for no sooner did he get what he wanted than he would cease to want t, and therefore lose all interest in what had been so gained.

The years rolled on, and Dick accumulated toys enough to keep a dozen children happy, but he was not content. He was sent to school, but was a day pupi! and staved at home with his parents when school was not in session. At school he was elever and did well, but like many clever children he got careless and therefore was not to be depended upon. He would pass well at the end of the term, mainly by effort of intensive studying in the last few days before examinations, but he missed many days at school on one excuse after another.

In his early 'teens his great wish in life, as far as a vocation went, changed from one thing to another so rapidly that his parents began to dispair of his ever taking up any line of business at all. He was by turns (in his imagination) a doctor, an engineer, a singer, a professor, a scientist, a lawyer, a miner and a host of other beings, all of which occupations engaged his attention for but a short before he found another work that appealed to him more.

Just before he was ready to leave school his father died, and Dick's family fell upon hard days. His father had been a prominent man, and had the reputation for being very "well off," but when the end came it was found that the family were involved in financial difficulties and Dick had to seek work at once to aid in the support of his home.

Out of kindness to his father, the boy was taken by one business man after an other, in many different lines of endeavor but could not stay with any work long enough to make a success of it at all. He was clever and had plenty of ability, but he lacked the power to stay with any work long enough to learn the first phases of its operation. After some years of drifting from one post through long periods of idleness to another, Dick at last found work as a bank clerk and at this he stayed for many years.

Gone were the days that he could call for what he wished, and see it placed before his eyes, anything he wanted now was outside of his reach (and had it not been he would not have wanted it) for the man grew up as the boy. He was discontented and soon became known as a "groueh." He had never made friends and for many, many years he passed a routine day at the office followed by a routine evening at home, without break or interlude, until his acquired disposition of grouchiness was so much a part of himself that he forgot he had ever been anything else.

The moral to this story is to form the habit of being contented in what you have. What if everyone around you has toys and other things that you would like, they have not your toys. What does it matter if Tom has a wealthy Dad and goes to Europe every year, he has not the same pleasure that you have in other ways. What should you care if others do not have to work for their living, they are missing the real purpose of living, that of being of service to others.

Form the habit of being happy in all that you have, and you will soon find that it is a habit that can be acquired quite easily, and at once your life will changed. You will grow up into a big man who will be able to tackle anything, and in spite of yourself you will find a pleasure in life, that you did not suspect when you had your eyes on the other and his possessions. You will be called "Happy" by your friends, and you will have many friends. Start to-day and be contented in your possessions and with your life. Work for all that is in you, but do not change your calling as often as Dick, or all the work in the world would not get you anywhere.

Grass Fires Now Are Very Dangerous

The Summer season brings us many things of pleasure, but it brings also the danger from fire. You know, of course, that the Government of this Province spends large sums of money annually in patrolling the forests and in putting out dangerous fires in the timber limits of the Island and Mainland, Yet every year thousands of dellars worth of timber is burned by the raging forest fires and, incidentally, many people are rendered homeless and lose their all.

Many of these fires are caused by natural causes, that is in places the woods set fire to themselves through excessive heat and other contributory causes. But many, and too many, fires are started by the carelessness of people who frequent the woods. A smoker flinging away a match before it is properly out, a camp fire left to be fanned back by the wind into a bed of glowing coals and flying sparks, and many like acts, all contribute the loss sustained almost daily throughout the Province from these

In a smaller way, but one that is, perhaps, more expensive, fires may be lit-from the dry grass that surrounds the city in the suburbs. The grass in fields and on the roadside is now getting dried to the point where a very slight start will loose a raging blaze. In no section of the city may a fire be lit that might not spread to property and burn houses, and, while rare in these days of fire protection, whole cities have been burned from this slight start.

See that you do nothing that might create such a fire, and so bring untold suffering in its wake. If you have occasion to light a fire on the beach, be sure that you watch it and put it well out when through making use of its generous warmth. The same applies to matches and firecrackers-be careful that the dry grass which now abounds in every district is not set alight by a little act of carelessness. If you do this and get your chums to do likewise, you will have saved a great many dollars for this community and maybe your own home into the bar-

NEWS AND NOTES OF VICTORIA BOY SCOUTS

The St. Mary's Troop returned recently from their trek camp. Their wanderings took them as far as Duncan and back. Leaving their headquarters on Monday morning, with a complete camp outfit on their new trek-cart they proceeded to Langford where the first night was spent. They were here joined by two Scouts from that district who accompanied them on the rest of the trip.

Tuesday evening found them, tired but happy, within a couple of miles of the Summit, encamped by a little creek. The next day's journey led them off the main road to Shawnigan Lake by the Summit Road. The party camped here on the property of Mr. Christie who further added to their enjoyment by taking them boating on the Lake. Thursday was a slack day, the party contenting themselves with reaching the other end of the Lake. Cobble Hill was reached on Friday. A cricket game was played here between the trekking party and the local Troop. The visitors were defeated by a score of 95 to 74. The party pushed on to Duncan on Saturday morning spending the rest of the day swimming and touring the country with members from the Duncan Troop.

The Victoria Scouts in company with some of the Dunean Scouts attended evening service at St. John's Church, and returned to Cobble Hill by night.

A return cricket match was played in the afternoon when the visitors took a terrible revenge for their former defeat. The score stood at 115 for two wickets to 41. Tea was provided for the teams by the ladies of the Cobble Hill Troop Com-

Tuesday found the party commencing to climb the Malahat, and Wed saw them arrive at the spot reached on the previous Tuesday. Langford was reached by Thursday noon and Scoutmaster Mac-

Artair's camp at Hatley Park was reached soon after. Victoria was reached by mid-day on Friday, and the party disbanded. Mr. Cherry, who conducted this trek-camp is now conducting a Wolf Cub camp at Hatley Park in conjunction with the James Bay Pack. Cubmaster Price of the James Bay Pack is in charge of his boys. The camp was visited last weekend by Scoutmaster Anset of Hillside Troop who has some boys present there, also by Cubmaster Norman Fatt who is now in this city being formerly active at Langford is on the stir. There are a number of people there who will be successful in forming a Troop. A party of Victoria Scouts gave a demonstration there on Monday evening and those pre-sent showed great enthusiasm which should be productive of good results. EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW HOW TO SWIM

The Summer is advancing and the holidays are getting on. How many of our little readers have learned to swim this year? You know that being able to swim is quite one of the best things that can be learned by every little girl and boy. It is a healthy and a glorious exercise building up strong little bodies and brave hearts. A good swimmer is rarely an un-pleasant character, for it is an art that must be learned in the open and usually to the accompaniment of the very best of companionship.

Boys naturally take to swimming a little more readily than girls, but for all that many quite tiny little girls can swim weil when larger brothers have not yet learned. Here are just a few of the good qualities that will come to the learner of the grand old pastime: Strength of leg and arm, of wrist muscles and neck, endurance and quick-wittedness, courage and a liking for helping others. Much more could readily be claimed for swire ming, but these will suffice to show what a fine body and character builder the water may be in this connection.

Apart from a reserve of power which will be always useful as one grows older, the ability to swim gives a sense of security on the water that lends much to the pleasure of boating, and gives the possessor a degree of safety in such pursuits not readily to be acquired in any other way. A strong swimmer has often saved the lives of others who get into difficulties in the water, and for this reason, if for no other, every little girl and boy should know not only how to swim but how to swim and rescue others from the water. Do not let this Summer go by without taking the first steps. Once the first few strokes have been taken the rest follows rapidly, and in less time than one would think the beginner is able to swim.

Aquariums Produce Many Unexpected Forms of Beauty

Man, the lord of the earth, has dominion over only about one-third of his domain, for the oceans of the world take up fully two-thirds of all matter upon this earth's surface. If the earth's crust were divided into 1,000 parts the land would be equal to 266 of these only and the oceans to 734 parts, or the larger portion by a very long way. Living on land and making his industries thrive by its products, man has not much knowledge of the sea, and its multitudinous forms of living creatures. Scientists, spurred on by the finding of many different species of sea life, were led to reproduce the qualities of the sea in miniature tanks called aquariums. These aquariums were ingeniously constructed to perform all the functions of the normal sea, and to contain the same elements that fostered life in the waters of the oceans of the world.

One of the largest and most beautiful aquariums ever constructed was built at Paris in the year 1861, in the Bois De Boulogne Zoological Gardens. This aquarium comprises ten large tanks, the water of which is kept by artificial means to the same composition as sea water. The tanks are heated in Winter to keen the water at the same temperature as the sea would be in deep water; while rain water and air are added to the tanks when required to make up for evaporation and to revitalize the water remain

The attributes of sea water has been so closely followed that the contents could not be told by analysis to be different, and even the tides are reproduced, a certain section of the tanks being exposed to the air periodically, in the manner of ebbing tides. Into these tanks are put all known forms of marine vegitation, and many little animal forms that here thrive under natural conditions.

Each of the ten tanks are fronted with a glass wall, and it is by this means that much of the present day knowledge of the marine world has been gained. It was found, soon after the aquarium was originated that marine plant life, composed by the way of very tiny animalcules, were equal and even superior to that existent on land, while for color and beauty of form nothing on land could be found to equal some of the many beauteous woslers here finding life.

If the opportunity is ever accorded to you, little reader, to view an up-to-date aquarium do not let it pass. So much has been done in this direction that to the casual observer the average aquarium is like a fairy paradise of wonderful forms of marine life. Nearly all land trees have similar forms in miniature under the waters of the ocean, while the life in tropical waters is perhaps far superior to anything to be seen upon the dry portion of this earth.

Up-Island Boys Attend Beaver Lake Gathering

Close on two hundred boys have been put through the Y. M. C. A. camp at Beaver Lake since its inception. The camp has now been operating four weeks and to-day marks the beginning of its fifth week in session. Under the leadership of Harold C. Cross, boys' work secretary of the institution, assisted by Delmar Battrick and James McEwan the camp has been a great success from every stand-point. The main difficulty has been to induce the boys to return to their homes after their stay in camp.

Boys who originally went into camp for one and two weeks have stayed three and four weeks, while this week there are over fifty boys in camp in more than their first week. A contingent of twenty boys arrived from Duncan this week to take in the camp, these joining the others in camp from the city, all boys being about the ages of from twelve years to fourteen years of age. The weeks in camp have been arranged into different programmes to suit boys of various ages growing, towards the latter stages of the camp, into assemblies for the older lads. One of the most successful features of this year's camp is the swimming, which fostered by excellent weather is now at its height. There are two main swimming places, in the artificial reservoir, used by the juniors, and the main lake itself. Both bodies of water are ideal for their several purposes, and the boys are taking advantage of every minute allowed them in swimming practice, polo and other water sports. The swimming parade is conducted with picket boats and patrols so that none may come to grief by accident.

The new pavilion, which graces the camp this year for the first time, has proved a great success, and adds much comfort to the other excellent facilities at the camp. Here in the evenings camp fire songs, and stunt nights are held, proving a joy to the youthful campers. Set amid ideal scenery and surroundings the Beaver Lake camp is proving a real body builder for the campers, and long hikes in the woods lend much attraction to the merry days in camp. To-day a large party are attending the Rotary gathering for boys at Deep Cove, under the care of Delmar Battrick, assistant boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and at the invitation of the Rotarians. Saturdays have been guest days in camp, and every Saturday afternoon many parents have taken the opportunity of viewing the excellent camp arrangements and facilities for themselves. One and all have expressed the opinion that the boys camp this year could not be surpassed.

Although under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., the Beaver Lake Camp is open to all boys of the city and Island and many up-country lads are now in camp. An excellent feature of the training provided is the fact that the boys in ing provided is the lact that the logs in groups are led by members from among themselves, thus making for the utmost companionship and agreeable discipline, without irksome routine. Sports and out-ings have proved the larger portion of camp life, and the boys are be unconsciously, many matters that will be to their ultimate benefit. The closing date for the camp has not yet been definitely set, but it will not likely occur until the many applicants have been affor opportunity of a week in these ideal sur

"For eight months of the year Vancouver Island is the most attractive; where nobody would suspect the name place on the continent on which to live, but a considerable number of its people evidently have not discovered that fact," observed a visitor from California who comes to Vancouver Island so frequently that before long he will regard himself, almost an out-and-out inhabitant.

The claim he makes for Vancouver Island is a very ambitious one but it is supported hy the tributes of so many other prominent visitors who have traveled all over the world and know what they are talking about that the most skeptical, who, of course, are among the residents of this locality, are beginning to be convinced of the justice of it.

Many Summer Homes

Within the next few years there will be erected at the numerous beauty spots on this Island a large number of Summer homes from large American centres who, unobstrusively have established residental connections with this Island in the form of Summer homes could be disclosed, the result would be surprising.

Take, for example, Sproat Lake, a beautiful stretch of water a short distance West of the head of the Xiberni Canal. This is probably one of the most attractive localities on the continent, and the fact that it is be-

The tremendous growth of the motor car sight-seeing busines and the development of Victoria as a tourist attraction in the space of a comparatively few years is interestingly told by the statistics furnished The Times by Cameron & Calwell, the veteran sightseeing firm of Victoria, whose activities dated away back to the good old days of the horse.

Would Not Be Offended

Mounting our Droft we speed from the spot without a regret, and before long Willie, now attired in my spare underwear, opined that he would not be offended if someone gave him an ice cream cone, so we stopped at the first place available and the cone was his. Just before reaching Mill Bay proper we noticed a pig digging on the beach for clams and Willie in his excitement let the ice fall out of the cone. "Boo hoo," chimed Willie, and Mary ways, "For heavens' sake stop and see if you can pick it up." It was a foolish thing to say, but I put the brakes to the Droft, and after skidding about twenty yards stopped. I brought back what lee cream I could, attached to sundry gravel particles. Willie was eyeing me with joyous expectation, and just as I was about to present him with the soiled but still toothome remnant Mary grabbed it, and said, "the idea of you giving the child a dirty thing like that to eat. I never did see a man like you." With that she threw the ice cream into the Saanich Arm and Willie, poor disappointed

Extra Attention for Batteries
The extra attention required by the batteries during the Summer is not entirely due to evaporation from heat, but is accounted for in part by the fact that the engine starts easier and therefore less current is used for starting. In a rear wheel skid, however, one of the worst things to be done is to apply the brakes. It is best to let the car coast, turning the front wheels in the direction the car is skidding. If it is trying to go to the left, turn the front wheels that way. If there is something in the way, so that it is necessary to stop, the brake may be applied a little as the wheels take hold, leaving the clutch engaged, which prevents locking the wheels, as the engine is pulling against the

New York, July 30.—Three hundred thousand miles of surfaced thorough fares, amounting to more than twelve times the earth's circumference, have been constructed in the United States and Canada since 1880, the year in which the "Good Roads Movement" had its organized inception, according to C. S. Lee, director of Highways Information Service, 25 West Forty-fourth Street. Agitation due to the advent of the motor car and truck has been responsible, he says, for taising the highway mileage of the United States to 2.478,552 and that of Canada to 255,000. For the period from 1880 in excess of $3,000,000,000 has been spent for highway improvement in the two countries.

"More than $1,300,000,000 additional will be required to carry out projects under contemplation," says Mr. Lee, "And yet only a beginning has been made. Billions more must be expended before the country has anything like a highway system, adequate to the traffic needs.

"Interest on the part of nearly 10,000,000 automobile and truck owners as well as the owners of the 6,000,000 teams of horses and mules regularly using or working on the highways not to mention the smaller number of Federal, state, county, district and municipal highway officials, engineers, contractors, manufacturers mail carriers, resort owners, farmers merchants, etc., has given the good roads movement such strength that no politican, national, state or local, dare refuse to listen when there is an honest demand for road betterment. At least 30,000,000 Americans arp now advocates of good roads."

310 states, counties, townships, road districts and municipalities, compared to $164,371,353 from 259 similar divisions of government having charge of the work in May. This is an increase of $14,935,006.36 and makes a total of $343,673,712.36 in new bond issues over and above the billion previously available, or a grand total of $1,343,678,712.36 now available for highway work in this country and the Dominion to the north. "The automobile and the motor truck have done more to form a favorable sentiment in behalf of road betterment than any other agency." says Mr. Lee. "It has been only by the most persistent efforts on the part of the advocates and the formation of militant organizations everywhere that the good roads movement has been carried to its present high state. "Of the 1,702 agencies that are now fighting for highway improvement, fifty-six are organizations everywhere the construction of certain national or interstate highways, fifteen are national or interstate highways, fifteen are national or interstate highways, fifteen are national or interstate highways fifteen are national or interstate highways and contractors, material or machiners trade associations and motor clubs, 250 are road contractors, material or machiners trade associations and engineering societies, thirty-two are motor truck and automoble trade organizations and boards of trade having standing committees which frame the policies of those organizations in matters pertaining to highway improvement."

NOT WATER HEATING PLANT,

Ucluelet Case Is Reported in Port Alberni Newspaper

A desperate fugitive is at large somewhere on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, or may have escaped to United States territory, leaving behind him a trail of crime and mystery, says the Port Alberni News.

The outlaw, whose identity is anknown, entered Ucluelet harbor in a cance on Sunday night and boarded a fishing launch. Without explanation or making any demands he knocked down and tied up a Japanese fisherman who was the only person aboard. The Jap, thinking his assailant was a robber, readily offered to give up all his money to save himself but the stranger announced that he did not want money. All he wanted was to get out of the country quickly and he needed a launch.

With the Jap securely bound, and the cance in tow, the usurper took the

It is suspected that there is some connection between the sinking of this launch and the later exploit in Ucluelet harbor.

The cause of the stranger's desperate anxioty to get away suggests mystery of a serious nature.

TO PUT "TEETH" IN SIGN BY-LAW

Strengthen Penalties of Overhead Fixtures Measure

More teeth will be put into the city's Overhead Fixtures By-law by the City Council Monday night, if recommendations of the civic Legislative Committee are adopted.

The Committee will recommend that the penalty for failure to pay overhead fixtures taxes be increased. An amendment to the by-law, to be introduced by the Committee provides that owners of stores and buildings who own overhanging signs and who fail to pay taxes on them shall be fined a maximum of $10. It provides, in addition, that in fine may be collected for every flay during which stores owners fail to pay the charges against them. Thus if, a merchant fails to pay the sign tax-and is fined $10 he does not escape further cost. He may be hailed into court immediately afterwards and fined $10 for failing to pay the tax on the, next day.

wards and fined $10 for failing to pay the tax on the next day.

The Legislative Committee's amendment by-law eliminates from the Overhead Fixtures By-law the words "and other fixtures" in describing what fixtures are liable to taxation. Thus, with the new amendment, the by-law will specify exactly what signs are to be taxed. Another by-law to be introduced at Monday night's Council meeting provides for the revision of fees which must be paid to the city for the privilege of auctioning cattle in the Public Market premises. At present the charge is two per cent. of the profit made at auction sales, but under the new plan a specified charge for each type of animal will be made.

Large numbers of men from all parts of Washington State as well as from Vancouver and Victoria and New Westminster gathered in Blaine Thursday to make arrangements for the dedication of the beautiful memorial arch. The gathering drew up a tentative programme for the ceremony and decided to repeat as nearly as possible the ceremonies which took place at Blaine on July 9, 1915, when a gathering of 3,000 people commemorated the hundred years during which Canada and the United States had been at peace. At this gathering Hon. Samuel Hill, President of the Pacific Highway, presided and, as he occupies this position again this year he will preside once more at the September ceremonies.

Firemen Busy.—Three fires which occurred almost simultaneously yesterday afternoon kept the Fire Department busy for about an hour. A roof fire at 36 Simcoe Street first required attention, and a few minutes afterwards fire engines were rushed to Roseberry Street, and Beacon Hill Park to exitinguish grass fires. If people would exercise a little more care and avoid dropping burning cigarette stubs on ground covered by dry grass the number of fires would be cut down very considerably. The Times, in an early edition, assumed that the reporter who took the alleged interview, was "misled by ignorance of British constitutional practices, but dramatized the conversation with such technical skill that the Government was induced to accept his version of a purely imaginary conversation between King George and the Premier."

This statement did not appear in later editions of The Times, neither did The Times nor The Daily Mail, another Northcliffe paper, offer a further explanation of Northcliffe's share in the incident, but both devoted considerable space in commenting upon the King's correct attitude in relation to his opening of the Belfast Parliament. The Times said:

Jokes.

The Daily News, suggesting that the whole affair might prove to have been a hoax, said:

"The lesson to be drawn will be simply the danger of semi-royal progress in foreign countries of peripatetic potentates of undefined status. They not only are a jest in themselves, but are an invitation to the practical joker, and a joke in these serious times may be exceedingly serious and costly.

Assuming that a hoax was the explanation, this newspaper thought hord worthcliffed deserved some symmathy, but added that he should have been equally well served by a voyage to the Pole.

The Chronicle said Lord Northcliffo appeared to have gone to the United States with the intent of doing what he could to make Mr. Lloyd George unpopular there and thus "queer the pitch" for the British Government in the coming disarmament negotiations in washington.

sonburg, Ont.

Tillsonburg. Ont. July 26.—(Canadian Press).—The turiff and its bearwing on every man, woman and child in Canada formed the subject of an address by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King here last night.

The present annual expenditure of $600,000,000 by the Government meant that it Ganada had a population of 10,000,000 people, there would be an annual outlay per individual of from $50 to $500 to $60 and per family of five persons of from $250 to $300, he said. Because of it, every purchaser of foodstuffs or clothing or other necessities found the tariff added something to the cost for the consumer.

Premier Meighen had been knowingly seeking to mislead the public on the tariff issue, Mr. King declared. The Premier had said there were only two kinds of tariff, a protective tariff, and a free trade tariff. There was no such thing as a free trade tariff, Mr. King asserted. The Liberal Party was not, and never had been, for free trade.

Liberal Policy.

Liberal Policy.

Liberal Policy.

Dealing with tariff revision, Mr. King said the Liberal policy was one of downward revision in the interests of the producers and consumers. A tariff for protection was bound to be in favor of the special interests, whereas a tariff for revenue would be a tariff for the people.

Tariff revision in Canada was long overdue. The Meighen Government declined to revise the tariff because it the interests which were in control of the Government were against revision.

Toronte, July 30.—Adam Hay, general organizer of the International Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers and Station Employees, stated to-day that strike ballots had been sent to members of the union in Canada and the United States to be returned by September. The men are being asked to vote upon the wage reduction which was decided upon recently.

"Last year the Brotherhoods were pussyfooting. The situation is different now. They intend to fight the wage reduction," said Hay. "Already we have strikes on three railroads in the United States."

Hay would not predict what the situation might be on the Canadian railroads. He stated that the Canadian Pacific Rajlway had been informed of the decision of the Brotherhood to reject the wage reduction.
